Description

Our software development company was born in 2014. Since then, we had successfully set up custom software services for start-ups and companies with technological needs. Our culture is friendly and open. We thrive on feedback and transparency. We believe in freedom of expression because innovations need creative freedom. We already know that creativity is the foundation, hence what we pursue is innovation in the action-producing sense. Floating Dots is a product software development company founded in 2014, around a team of creative and enthusiastic people. Since then, we had successfully set up custom software services for companies with technological needs as well as start-ups. Our services are scalable so we can address the needs of businesses of all sizes. We are defined by our curiosity and passions. That's why we are striving to ensure the high quality of the solutions we develop. The industries in which we have a deep understanding of the complexity of business processes are Retail (e-commerce), Fintech, Manufacturing, Sales, Healthcare and PropTech. Managing all the stages of the software lifecycle is what we do to ensure the success of your ideas: ideation, architecture, design, development and quality assurance. We cover a complete set of services and abilities for developing, designing, testing and supporting software products: Web Development, Mobile Development, UI & UX Design, QA & Testing, Project Management, Business Analysis, and Technical Support.
